International Colloquium – Mémorial de Caen 6-7 May 2010

“From Absence to Representation: the Challenges of Memory and Memorialization”

In association with two great memorials, that of Caen and the coming National September 11, 2001 in New York, the CNRS and New York University (NYU), a unique international conference will be held at the Mémorial de Caen on May 6 and 7, 2010.

It will bring together leading American and French Memory specialists, historians, sociologists, anthropologists, neuroscientists, psychiatrists, legal experts, philosophers, but also museum professionals.

All have been working for a year in Paris and/or New York to accept an amazing challenge: that to achieve a common understanding, in a Franco-American coordination and in all disciplines, of how the memory of the Second World War and that of September 11, 2001 function.

The world's leading experts will gather together around four sessions and will bring up the notions of forgetting, absence, concealment and denial.

How much can memorial or museums display? What purposes do memorials serve?
